

Dates and Locations for the 2007 Community Conversations on Aging

Julie Christopher, Commissioner of the Virginia Department for the Aging, will visit the following communities this Spring as part of the Department's ongoing "Community Conversations on Aging" information exchange initiative. These "conversations" provide opportunities for older Virginians and their families, service providers and local business, education, and legislative leaders to address the needs of today's aging population by sharing information. The information gathered in these meetings will be used by the Department as part of its overall plan to identify, fund, coordinate and deliver future services and programs for older citizens and their families.
